Ballplayers want place to play

DARREN LUM
Staff Reporter

There's not much to the Haliburton ball diamond.

Except for the chain fence backstop, a couple of team benches, a pair of bleachers on opposing sides, and a set of towering light stands (some leaning off kilter), it's a virtual sandlot with its best days behind it. However, for the children and youth who come out every Tuesday night, rain or shine, this is the place where they learn not only to play softball, but also to fail and to overcome. This is where they get to round the bases or make the run saving catch at the fence while parents and other children cheer.

Mandy Swinson, one of the parents who facilitates the weekly pickup night, is concerned over the possibility that Dysart could remove the ball diamond from town.

The thought of this night coming to an end is disheartening to her and parent and facilitator Kim Henry.

Henry's long-time partner Jimmy O'Neill, who died last year to cancer, started this night after a contingent of children and youth came to him more than three years ago. O'Neill was a passionate baseball fan and could never say no to children. He promised them he would be there for them.

Henry and Swinson want to carry on this promise for them and him.

Online retailer Living Libations plans to expand

ANGELICA INGRAM

The following are brief reports of items discussed at the July 27 meeting of Dysart et al council.

Local health and beauty business Living Libations is looking to expand their operations.

Owners and operators of the business

Ron Obadia and Nadine Artemis presented a proposal to councillors to build a new 7,000-square-foot building to operate their business.

Since starting as a retail location on Queen Street in Toronto in 1994, the business has expanded and moved permanently to the Haliburton Highlands, where it employs 25 people, said Artemis.

Specializing in organic products, Living Libations is an online business that ships items made in Haliburton around the world.

The couple had planned to build a new facility for their business years ago, however in 2013 a fire consumed their home and burnt the house and much of their business to the ground, said Artemis.

The business was able to continue operations due to the support of a local couple, who offered their home on Calico Road as a temporary site.

Eco-friendly, 7,000-sq. ft. building proposed

The business has since outgrown that space and the couple is ready to build a new site, to be located off Harburn Road.

The plan is to build an eco-friendly, state of the art building that will provide an innovative space for the employees, said Artemis.

"The planned building will contain a mix of office, production and warehouse space," the couple wrote in a handout given to council.

"It is our intent to use sustainable building materials when possible. All interior and exterior finishes will be environmentally friendly and aesthetically appropriate for the property and community."

Reeve Murray Fearrey inquired whether the business would be able to connect to high-speed Internet at their new location and suggested looking into that.

The couple would like to get the project moving as quickly as possible, with the hopes of moving the business to Harburn Road by next year.

The proposed property includes 100 acres, zoned rural residential, however, only five acres would need to be rezoned, to allow for the building, according to surveyor Greg Bishop.

The couple said there are concerns amongst neighbours at their current location but they hope to mitigate those with an open house, to improve relations.

Artemis stressed that Living Libations adheres to good manufacturing practices, with normal operating hours from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Deliveries are made by standard courier trucks during regular business hours and no harmful chemicals, odours, fumes or noise comes from the facility.

In order to move forward the proposal would require a zoning bylaw amendment and a site plan agreement, according to director of municipal planning Pat Martin's report to council.

Describing the business as an agricultural related commercial enterprise, Martin said it is consistent with provincial policy and conforms to the Dysart official plan.

Glebe Park building moves forward

A proposal for a sustainable building in Glebe Park is moving ahead with the support of Dysart council. Fleming College's Ted Brandon and Haliburton Highlands Nordic Ski Trails Association chairman Mike Darlington approached council with a plan to build a new facility in the park outside of the college campus.

As reported in the July 7 issue of the Echo, the hope is to have the building constructed by the school's Sustainable Building Design and Construction program.

While the budget for the project is unclear at this point, Brandon said past projects usually come in at $100 per square foot. The proposal includes building a 1,500-square-foot building, tentatively putting the price tag for the project at $150,000 to $200,000.

The building might change as planning begins, due to issues such as water.

"It's going to be a process," said Brandon.

The association is hoping to get funding from the Ontario Trillium Foundation to help offset costs of the project, however if and how much funding they receive could affect the scope of the proposal.

Council passed a resolution to support a grant application to the OTF for the accessible building project.

OP review process begins

Dysart et al has officially begun its five-year review of the municipality's official plan, with a special meeting of council on July 27.

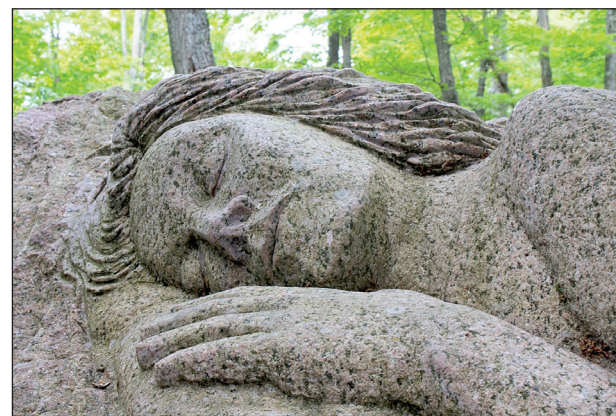

As mandated by the province, the review allows the public to weigh in on planning decisions made by council.

Delegations were made by a wide range of community representatives, including the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, the Haliburton Highlands Land Trust, Communities in Action, Environment Haliburton, Community Food Assessment and area cottager associations.

A variety of issues were raised, including addressing empty storefronts along the downtown core, a growing demand for local food, mandatory septic re-inspection and more.

Director of planning for the municipality, Pat Martin told those in attendance she anticipates having a draft plan available by the fall of 2016.

Explore the Sculpture Forest

Name: Sleep of the Huntress (2004)

Artist: Doug Stephens

Material: Belmont rose granite from Maine

About: An elegant sleeping woman, lost in the deep world of dreams, she exists in a spiritual realm out of time and immaterial. The placing of this sculpture was very strategic; Stephens said that if she were to awake he wanted her to have a beautiful view of the forest and lake.

About the Artist: Stephens has been carving stone since taking a course in Haliburton in 1998. He went on to study sculpture in Halifax at the Nova Scotia College of Art and Design. Through his time in Haliburton, he became friends with sculptor George Pratt, who invited him to spend some months in Vancouver apprenticing at his studio. In 2001, Stephens moved his own studio to Belleville and began working as a full-time sculptor for the Campbell Monument Company. He often teaches in the summer at the Haliburton School of the Arts.

Fireworks fundraiser rocks Big and Little Kennisis

Rock on the Dock, classic rock music by the Rockin' Bobs, was held Saturday, July 25 on Big and Little Kennisis Lake. The lake was invited to bring boats and tie off to each other, sit back and enjoy the music. Gary Bouwmeister put on the concert as a private lake event and the band played on his Tiki dock overlooking the lake, where many boats came to listen. Bouwmeister provided the band with the objective of raising money for the Aug. 1 fireworks on the lake. By the end of the afternoon they raised $950. The July 1 fireworks is sponsored by the lake association and the August long weekend is privately sponsored. Photos submitted

Traffic stop results in numerous charges

On July 24, an officer from the Haliburton Highlands Detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police stopped a vehicle on Dewey Street in Highlands East for a Highway Traffic Act Violation.

While speaking with the male driver signs of alcohol consumption were detected, which resulted in a breath demand being requested.

A 52-year-old from Highlands East has been charged with the following offences contrary to the HTA:

- Driving while under suspension
- Fail to signal for turn
- Adult Novice Driver – blood alcohol above zero

The accused is scheduled to appear in provincial offences court in Minden on Sept. 15. Submitted

Shakespeare in the park cancelled

ELIZABETH BATE

Staff Reporter

The president of the Highlands Little Theatre says the group will not be performing Shakespeare in the Park as planned.

The theatre company had planned to put on the Shakespearean comedy A Midsummer Night's Dream from Aug. 9 to 13, however Jane Johnston said the auditions on June 14 and 15 in Haliburton did not have enough actors interested in one of the 20 roles available.

Although the play was still up on county websites and event calendars as of last week, cancellation notices replaced the listings after Johnston spoke with the Echo.

The cancellation isn't keeping the company from thinking of future productions and even considering performing the Shakespearean classic at another time.

"I know they want to do it for other years, but not this year," Johnston said.

Speed limit changes coming in Highlands East

ELIZABETH BATE

Staff Reporter

Road users will be required to hit the breaks on some Highlands East roads this summer.

In a special meeting of Highlands East council July 21 council voted in favour of increasing or decreasing the speed limits on several area roads.

Clarke Road, Ojibway Road and West Eels Lake Road were changed to 50 km per hour, Universal Road was changed to 40 km per hour, and Dyno Road was changed to 60 km per hour.

All changes were made in accordance with the Highway Traffic Act and those caught violating the new limits can be fined or punished accordingly.

Forward into election season

OVER THE WEEKEND, Prime Minister Stephen Harper visited Governor General David Johnston, asking him to dissolve Parliament, opening the campaign period for the federal election.

Plenty has already been written about how this will be the longest federal election in recent history with Canadians going to the polls Oct. 19.

It will undoubtedly be a tiring process for the candidates and a drain on the parties' war chests, but for the citizens it doesn't have to be a drag.

In Haliburton-Kawartha Lakes-Brock, we have brand new candidates to meet. MP Barry Devolin is now our former MP with his executive assistant Jamie Schmale now the Conservative candidate. The Liberals have chosen former Brock Township councillor David Marquis to carry their flag and the NDP has Mike Perry, executive director of the Kawartha Lakes Family Health Team already appearing at functions around the county. The Green party has also fielded a candidate – Bill MacCallum – an educator from the Lindsay area.

Having met all of the candidates, it's clear each is passionate, smart and interested in serving the riding. But which one will best represent our needs? With this extended campaign period, we have the time to find out.

Keep an eye out for stories in the Echo over the next two months examining local issues and where the candidates stand.

Community losses

We were saddened in the last month to hear of the passing of several community members, two of whom had special connections with the Echo.

On July 9, Virginia "Ginny" Muenzel, a former writer for the Echo, who penned the Northern Lights column, passed away in her 78th year. A community volunteer, former Rails End Gallery president and traveller, Muenzel wrote her column about life in the Highlands in the '80s and '90s. As you will read in Eleanor Cooper's column in this edition, Ginny was also a weaver and taught Eleanor when she was starting out.

And last week, the town of Haliburton lost a familiar face with the sudden passing of Gerald "Cowboy" Marshall.

At the Echo, our interactions with Cowboy (we only knew him as Cowboy) mostly came during the holiday season when he would arrive at the back door with a cart full of Christmas cards. Each year he would give out more than a hundred of the cards and enjoyed chatting with people in the office as he delivered them.

At Midnight Madness on Friday night, many conversations included a sombre mention of Cowboy's passing and sadness at losing one of the town's most colourful personalities. His neighbour Helen Gardner emailed the paper with details about his life, including his full name, which most people didn't know.

"He would shovel my snow in the winter – celebrated several birthdays in my home and was a good friend," she wrote.

Summer bursting with life

SUMMER IN THE HIGHLANDS is Ontario at its best and summer in Haliburton Village is upbeat and bursting with a vibrancy that shouts out small town life at the lake.

We have welcomed our summer residents, cottagers and visitors to enjoy all that we have to offer and now we invite them to join us in making full use of August fun times and special village events.

Who doesn't love a summer carnival and parade? Thank you to the Haliburton Rotary Club for these annual traditions.

Then, we're going to the dogs with the Cottage Country Dog Festival on Aug. 15 and the weekend of Aug. 22 and 23 will bring the Haliburton Outboard Races. The Haliburton Village BIA (Business Improvement Area) merchants provide local shopping that is also at its best.

Look for summer sales and our special promotion Come to Town Tuesdays.

Tuesday is the day to enjoy the Farmers' Market, the Hop-on, Hop-off Bus, a free tour of the Sculpture Forest, free Heritage Walks with staff of the Haliburton Highlands Museum and to bring your lawn chair to the Rotary Club's Music in Park concert.

In addition, many of our stores and restaurants have Tuesday specials and/or seniors' discounts.

Our goals, as your BIA, are to support the town as great place to shop locally; to promote beautification projects such as flowers, banners and seasonal decorations; and to support community events and all the wonderful partners and organizations that implement special attractions and unique happenings that bring the village to life.

In addition, we are always in tune to the needs of the community and especially our youth.

We are looking forward to supporting and sponsoring planned enhancements at the skateboard park.

More news about this next month but for now you can mark Sept. 12 on your calendar for the Dysart et al skate park fundraiser. I will be there and hope you will too!

Also, looking ahead, it is time to give you advance notice of the BIA's ColourFest Festival. Co-ordinator Autumn Smith tells us that the planning is almost done and she is ready to advertise and let you know what you can expect at this family fun annual event.

Please book Saturday, Oct. 3 as your day for pumpkins, scarecrows, classic cars, barbecues, live entertainment and much more.

Finally, summer fun is a little tiring for this grandma but worth every moment of memory making!

Going to keep it rocking until the very end and it looks like we finally have an August weekend when all our children, spouses and grandchildren will be together.

That's 17 for dinner. I'm not a big fan of cooking but my barbecue chicken is becoming legendary. Enjoy making your summer memories in the Highlands and come to town any day of the week for great shopping and to enjoy our August special events.

Fly fishing for fun and relaxation

RIGHT NOW, word has probably reached the coach of the Canadian national rowing team that there's this middle-aged guy in Haliburton who can paddle faster than anything you've ever seen.

It is true I was going awfully fast yesterday while trying to fish, but I must confess, it was mostly due to high winds.

Canoeing in a high wind can be a bit of a challenge. Fly fishing in a high wind is an even greater challenge.

So why, you ask, did I choose to fly fish from a canoe in high winds?

The answer is I did not choose this at all.

When I got to the lake, the wind was lying in ambush behind a cloud.

The water looked placid and inviting – perfect for a man alone in a 17-foot sail, I mean canoe. So I launched.

That dastardly wind waited for just the right moment – when I was 50 feet off shore, right in the middle of my first cast – to start howling.

Before I had even finished my cast, I was 50 metres down the lake. I was about to call it a day when, in an overt act of malice and retribution, a fish struck.

By the time I landed the three-inch bass, I was another 100 metres down the lake and, for a moment, passing two guys on jet skis.

Loon Tales

I have never been a big fan of jet skis but when they abandoned the race and showed off by driving to where they actually wanted to go, that pretty well sealed the deal.

There are two ways to go in a situation like this. You can try to turn your canoe into the wind and paddle back to shore or you can simply enjoy the ride, which is admittedly hard to do while trying not to soil your pants.

I chose the latter.

I managed to paddle and steer into the wind shadow of a deserted island and actually had a good time fishing for a few minutes – until the wind direction changed and threatened to dash my canoe on the rocks and make me a castaway.

I was simultaneously paddling and trying to imagine what I'd look like with a full beard and clothes made out of pine needles when I managed to clear the end of the island, only to get swept out into the middle of the lake so I could spend quality time among the white caps.

I was being swept farther and farther from the landing. I never got good grades in geography, but I'm pretty sure I had entered the area where only dragons lie and was quickly between blown towards the edge of our flat world.

Desperation like this makes you do crazy things so I stopped fishing and picked up a paddle again. This time I began paddling in earnest with the prow of the canoe cutting each big wave towards the launch. The process was simple: advance three paddle strokes forward, retreat two paddle strokes back. And in the midst of all those strokes, try not to have one.

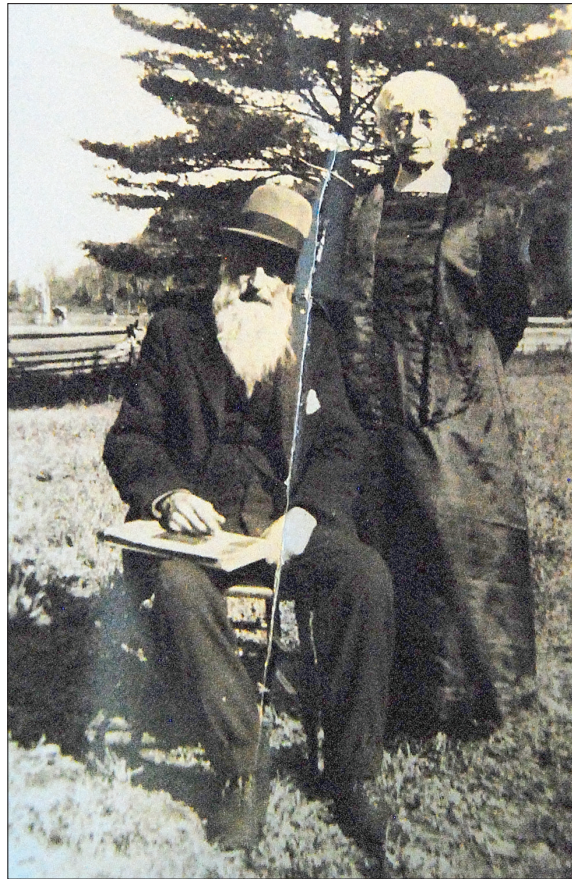

Eventually, I made it, exhausted and with sore muscles, back to the landing.

Just then, the two guys with jet skis pulled up and saw me unload my fly rods.

One said, "Fly fishing from a canoe, huh? Boy, that looks relaxing."

To which, I nodded and replied, "You ought to try it some time."

Celebrating women leaders

To the Editor,

A grand lady named Flora MacDonald died early on a Sunday morning, at the age of 89.

There were no accolades or tributes mentioned, she just went quietly into that morn.

It is probably the way she would have wanted it.

As Patrick Martin of The Globe and Mail says, she broke down the invisible door that barred women from high office in Canada.

Her long-time friend and aide, David Small said "She inspired a whole generation of young people to get involved in the communities and politics."

She wanted more women in office, but she didn't want to be defined as an advocate for women.

She started her career as a bank teller, gave it up to travel to England and Scotland and hitch-hiked across war-torn Europe in 1950.

She often speed skated to work along the Rideau Canal when she was in Parliament.

This was a woman who was 4F: fearless, fiesty, funny and frank. She tackled things other people didn't have the guts to try.

I met her, well we didn't get introduced to each other, but I sat across from her in an airport, both of us reading the paper.

We were both turning the page at the same time and looked at each other. Of course, I recognized her right away. Did I get up and introduce myself, and gush at what a fan I was, and thank her for all that she did? No, it just didn't seem mannerly. I simply smiled and nodded, she smiled back and nodded as well.

It is something innate in women that we do. A nod and a smile. It can mean "I get it," "I understand," "my deepest thank you," "you rock" – whatever it means to you and that person.

The last of the great ones? Certainly not. We can look to our own community that strives on with wonderful women at the helm. You only need to think of women like,

Carol Moffatt, Reeve of Algonquin Highlands who currently and will always rank as a 4F. She has led us through many storms, with courage, aplomb and her wonderful sense of humour.

She needs no accolades, she gets the job done! I can name many women who fit also into this category: Janis Parker, a great businesswoman, and a behind the scenes doer of great deeds; Wendy Iles and Alisha LaFleur, who tirelessly give of themselves; Brigitte Gebauer of health services, who does so much for this community and needs no fanfare, just quietly smiles and gets it done; Tammy Rea, who constantly inspires us, and has brought Haliburton County into the media mainstream; Jane Jaycock, another great lady who works tirelessly behind the scenes and is a great artist that constantly gives back to the community; Marilynne Lesperance and Joanne Barnes of Fuel for Warmth, who ensure that no one in this community goes cold; Roxanne Casey, who basically runs a community radio station, this woman is never without a smile, or an encouraging word, and works long hours to ensure that the community needs are being met.

These women are just a few of the many you have been inspired by the likes of a grand lady like Flora MacDonald.

So when you see these ladies out and about in our lovely Highlands, a simple nod and a smile is all that is needed, no fanfare, no accolades, they are all grand ladies.

Oh, and take a look in the mirror, I bet you are one too!

Praise for Sears Haliburton

To the Editor,

As a summer resident of Haliburton, I do a lot of home improvements through our local Sears store. Unfortunately, I was in the middle of a bad experience this year trying to get a mattress set replaced due to defects in a limited amount of time and was having little success with telephone representatives.

In a last ditch effort to replace my creaky, saggy mattress before leaving and having my summer renters arrive, I called Wendy at Sears Haliburton. After explaining my three-week problem to Wendy, she took it upon herself to contact her superiors and a day or two later a new mattress set for me was approved and recently delivered.

All my future business will remain with our local Sears store!

Wings

Silence of the seagull as it glides through Sky pale as its wings, its shadow flapping over the rocks where I lie, my spine a fossil embedded in the rock, its heat seeping into me.

The shadow of my arm reaching up, fingers trying to tickle the tail of the seagull that's already melting into a cluster of clouds, dark as octopus ink, spilling onto the hills.
How strange, this summer day.

Sunlight and darkness smeared across the canvas of Sky as if by giant wings, Wind scribbling its warning across the surface of the lake, slinking through the branches of trees, whispering to the leaves, It's coming.

I crouch on the rocks still as a tree stump, watching Sky flicker gold and charcoal.
A seagull squawks above me before the first thunder-clap.

I rise from the rocks to seek shelter from the rain beneath a willow, pressing my spine into its truck, its roughness scrubbing the midday heat from my brain.

I stand and listen to rain splat on the leaves, watch it darken the skin of the rocks where I lay, erasing the shadow of my bones.

I spot a white feather that's pasted to the place where I crouched. I bolt out from beneath the willow to rescue the feather from the storm, my palm cradling it the way the rocks cradled me.

Billions of years of wind and rain lashing their skin, how I admire their resilience as I cower beneath the willow, listening for the rain to stop, watching for sunlight to blot the clouds, so I can flap my wings beneath blue sky again, smudging the silence after the storm with my song.

Catching the wind

This was the fifth consecutive year the Kennis Lake Cottager Owners Association (KLCOA) has sponsored the BOOM Program, offered by the Ontario Sailing Association.

Using the double handed dinghies, the participants aged eight to 14 learned the basics of sailing using Sail Canada's CANSail 1 and 2 standards. Two CANSail (Sail Canada) certified instructors enabled the children to not only become familiar with the sailing terms, but to be proficient sailors. The OSA provides professional instructors, the sailboats, teaching aids and lifejackets.

Adults also had opportunities to receive lessons during the week. Pete Sulman, the first KLCOA sailing co-ordinator, first brought the BOOM program for two years in the early 1980s. Current KLCOA sailing co-ordinator Jim Prince said he believes this is the only publicly offered sailing instruction in Haliburton County.

From top, clockwise, young sailors navigate around a buoy, marking a course; instructors outline the afternoon's session; learning how to right a boat after it has capsized; and boat sails during the BOOM Sailing Program offered by the Ontario Sailing Association on Tuesday, July 28 out on Lake Kennis.

Pickup league important to families

Although there has been an ongoing discussion about the future of the property, Dysart Reeve Murray Fearrey said a decision regarding the baseball diamond in town hasn't been made, but the preference is for a town location such as Glebe Park.

Swinson supports a ball park at Glebe Park. She supports it because of its seclusion, within walking and biking distances for the children and youth.

She and Hardy are concerned if council removes the current diamond and if plans for construction of a new diamond are not initiated this autumn then there won't be a place for the children to play by spring.

Using West Guilford as the only ball diamond in Dysart would hinder children, she adds.

Dysart's director of planning and development Pat Martin said moving the diamond isn't about replacing it with something different, as much as the diamond just doesn't fulfill "regulation size" dimensions as outlined by Softball Canada. She said its proximity to the roadway is also a concern, as home runs that clear the perimeter netting above the outfield fence land in the roadway.

The township's director of parks and recreation Ray Miscio said regulations are different depending on the game.

Softball Canada's website said for slo-pitch, a ball diamond from the plate to between the foul poles must measure 68.2 metres (225 feet) for females, 83.3 metres (275 feet) for co-ed and 83.3 metres (275 feet) male. The Haliburton ball diamond is only slightly larger than the female slo-pitch playing area, as indicated by a sign with 228 feet at the centrefield fence. Miscio did not respond if regulations apply to pickup games.

The free pickup league is important to the children, youth and adults alike, Swinson said.

"This is my favourite night of the week. So, I think honestly, if it goes I will be really upset for the simple fact I look forward to these kids. Just to see a kid hit the ball and see a smile on their face [makes my day]," she said.

Even before the snow is off the diamond children are asking her if they can play, Swinson said.

The season starts early-April and ends at the end of September.

As far as numbers go, it can vary from season to season and night to night, which is the nature of a pickup night, she adds.

"When it's just a pickup league you don't know what you're going to have, but it's the convenience of it," she said. "A lot of these kids ride their bikes, walk. Being in town, the kids just about anywhere can come and play. Parents don't have to worry about getting them there. They can ride their bikes and they see kids playing they can just join in."

She adds during the school year there are as many as 80 players who come out from after school to until 10 p.m. Between May and the beginning of July is when pickup is the busiest.

Participants are from four to 19 and when numbers require it are divided into three age groups four to nine, 10 to 14 and 14 and up. Organized leagues cost money and require more of a commitment, which is a contrast to the free pickup night that just allows an informal recreation opportunity that is lacking for children and youth, Swinson said.

"This gives them somewhere to come and hang out and play baseball where there is nowhere else in town for this to happen," she said.

Some of the teens help adults run the

Every Tuesday from April to September, children and youth come to the downtown Haliburton baseball diamond for informal recreation. The free pickup night is divided into three age groups. The parents who facilitate the night are concerned the diamond will be removed. Dysart council has said there is a preference for an in-town location, but have not reached a final decision regarding plans for the area, which is in front of the A.J. LaRue Arena./DARREN LUM Staff night, acquiring volunteer hours essential to high school student graduation. The parents said the teens love doing it.

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School recent graduate Jordan Nimigon, 18, didn't even know how to play baseball before he started playing one pickup night three years ago.

Now that he's older, he appreciates being a mentor to the younger players.

"It makes them feel a lot better being able to hang out with us older kids. It feels good on us, showing them how to play baseball too so when they get older they can carry on too," he said.

Except for West Guilford, there isn't an option for youth between 14 and 18 who want to play any kind of baseball in Haliburton.

Jim and Marilyn Frost have lived next to the ball diamond for 18 years and corroborate Swinson's claim that the diamond is a well used facility.

"We're here 24 hours a day, seven days a week," Jim Frost said. "We see who comes and goes."

It's the location, Frost said, that makes it popular. He contends a location out of town won't get the same usage.

He challenges council to come out and see for themselves if the diamond's removal would affect anyone.

Up to four days a week, the diamond is being used, he said.

Every Monday, Swinson said, the Haliburton Red Wolves Special Olympic baseball team comes out.

"You get rid of this diamond and there is no diamond next year. Where do they go? Where do they play?" she said. "It's not just us."

From the first of June until the end of August, the Haliburton Red Wolves play from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m., said their coach John Kellett.

"The current location is ideal for most of our athletes because they live within walking distance. As well, the ball diamond is safe for our special needs athletes because it's level and has a proper playing field. A different location too far from town would mean that some athletes would not be able to participate," he wrote in an email. There are 14 athletes on the team who are often joined by other non-team members. They average 20 players a week, but popularity grows.

"The numbers are growing each year as we continue to create interest in the community of special needs children and adults to come out to play. Some have been reluctant to participate because they haven't thought that they could actually do it. In some cases it has taken a couple of years of potential players to first come and watch, then cheer on their friends, then begin to play," he said.

Kellett said the team has played at the Haliburton location for close to 10 years. They have tried other locations when Haliburton's wasn't available, but returned for its good condition and lack of bugs.

Sometimes passersby will join in the fun. This is part of the beauty of the ball diamond in town. It just gives everybody a chance to play, Swinson said.

Eco-tourism intern from France loving life in the Highlands

ANGELICA INGRAM

Staff Reporter

Scheduling a 30-minute interview with Camille Martin is no easy task.

Between her two jobs, volunteer commitments and hobbies, the 23-year-old native of France has very little free time.

"I find the more I immerse myself in Haliburton the less free time I have," jokes Camille, who has been in the county for the past three months.

Camille officially arrived in Canada on May 8, which marked the first time she had ever left Europe.

Born and raised in France, Camille is from Normandy, a city well known to Canadians from the battles that took place on the beaches there during the Second World War.

"I come from Dieppe," she said. "We have a monument to Canadians there."

An eco-tourism student, Camille sought out the opportunity to come to the Haliburton Highlands to fulfill an internship component of her program.

After researching eco-tourism businesses online, Yours Outdoors really appealed to her.

"I was interested in Canada for some time," she said. "I didn't know much about it, so I was just intrigued."

Fluent in English, Camille wanted to see how eco-tourism was done in other countries and cultures and wanted to experience it in an English speaking country.

Camille emailed Barrie Martin of Yours Outdoors, with whom she has no relation although they share a surname, and was impressed by his response time, that being 12 minutes.

"I thought this guy seemed interested," she laughs. "He has been more than welcoming."

Through her internship, Camille has been handling a variety of tasks, including organizing tours, customer service, marketing and working on Hike Haliburton, a county festival taking place in September.

Martin believes Camille's greatest strengths are her confidence, her ability to meet and engage with people, her customer service skills and sense of humour.

Aside from working at Yours Outdoors, she also spends one day a week at Abbey Gardens, where she assists with the gardens.

"Any job that involves having people around I really like to do," she said.

When she is not working, Camille fills her days with volunteering opportunities, such as The Forest Festival, and playing violin in the newly formed band Fifth Business.

A lover of music, Camille has been attending many of the live music events throughout the county and even busked at the Haliburton Arts and Crafts Festival with her band.

Prior to coming to Canada Camille was worried there might not be enough to do in the Highlands. Instead it has been the exact opposite.

"I've met a lot of people," she said. "It's really nice being around here; you can do something every night if you want."

Camille will be travelling back to her home country at the end of August and will be writing her final exams in September.

One thing she misses about home is the baguettes and her friends.

"I miss my friends mostly," she said.

Before she leaves Camille would like to see more of Canada, with hopes of travelling to Ottawa and Quebec.

So far Canada has only exceeded Camille's expectations and given her a few surprises.

"I was surprised that you actually encounter wildlife," she said. "You encounter it on a daily basis ... on my first day I saw a porcupine. I had never seen a porcupine in my life."

Apart from wildlife, Camille enjoys spending lots of time near lakes and outdoors.

She hopes to come back to the county in November, to work part-time and fully embrace winter.

"I really want to do the winter thing, I want to see what it's like."

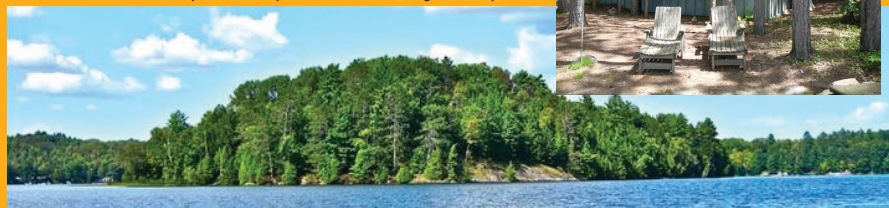

Camille Martin has never travelled outside of her home country of France prior to her visit to the Haliburton Highlands. The 23-year-old eco-tourism student is completing a three-month internship with Yours Outdoors and Abbey Gardens. ANGELICA INGRAM Staff

Highlands Opera appealing to wider audience

ELIZABETH BATE

Staff Reporter

Aiming for a high note this season, the Highlands Opera Studio opens Aug. 4 with a program calendar its directors hope will make the experience more accessible.

Beginning the season with four concerts, a group of songs from around the world on Aug. 4, and three pop concerts on Aug. 11, 13 and 17, the group is trying to dispel the myth that opera is highbrow.

"It's not elitist, people love to sing and singing is singing," said general director Valerie Kuinka.

The show on Aug. 11 and 13 will feature songs from Broadway and Aug. 17 will highlight songs from film with special emphasis on The Sound of Music in honour of the movie's 50th anniversary. Selections in those concerts will include Henry Mancini's well-known theme from Breakfast at Tiffany's, "Moon River" and "I dreamed a dream" from Les Mis, songs from Chitty-Chitty Bang Bang, as well as song from other famous movie and Broadway musicals.

"People will recognize the music," Kuinka said. "The art form isn't snobby. It's really about human emotion."

Kuinka said the small venue helps guests to experience the music they're hearing.

"They have the experience ... they didn't know the human voice could sound like that," she said.

Artistic director Richard Margison said the evening provides relaxed entertainment and unlike other opera or theatre experiences there is no dress code.

"You can wear your shorts or wear your tuxedo," he said.

The first of the season's two operas will be a production written by Canadian Tobin Stokes called The Vine-dressers Aug. 19 and 21 which is set on Pelee Island. Margison says the story is short, just 90 minutes, is in English and has everything an audience would expect from an opera.

"It's got love, hate, murder and suicide," he said.

The other opera will be a modern dress production of the comedy The Marriage of Figaro Aug. 30, Sept. 1, 2 and 3. Kuinka is directing the Italian production written by Mozart about a sleazy but wealthy womanizer and his servants. Setting the show in Hollywood in 1978 and modelling the main characters after Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor, Kuinka says the story will be instantly recognizable to the audience.

"Everybody will be able to relate to the characters," she said.

Although the production is in Italian, it will have English surtitles to help the audience understand the words being sung.

The studio's performances give experience to those operatic artists enrolled in its professional training program. Students are chosen for the program each year by Kuinka and Margison. Kuinka says when they founded the program in 2007 their aim was to fill the gap between school and employment for opera singers.

"We noticed there was a hole for young people looking to join opera, especially for Canadian artists," she said. "We talked about 'wouldn't it be great to be able to help people within our industry?' and 'how do they get a chance to really sing on world stages?'"

Figaro was specifically chosen this year as a learning tool for those participating in the program. The production uses conversation between the operatic numbers in a different way, with performers singing the dialogue.

"It's very difficult for the singers, but very natural for the listener," said Kuinka. "It's very difficult and needs to be rehearsed a lot."

Kuinka says the Haliburton area has been really welcoming to program, and the eight seasons of performances have been well received.

"This has proven to be the most special and wonderful place to hold this," she said.

Kuinka says plans include expanding the group to include the Highlands Opera Theatre to run alongside the training program.

"We do aspire to build a separate professional company," she said.

Tickets are $34.50 for concerts and $37.50 for operas and can be purchased online at highlandsoperastudio.com.

This year's group of students will start performances to show off their talents Aug. 4 with a pop style concert series, followed by two modern-dress operas.

Shine On: A creative take on Lennon

JENN WATT

Editor

Michael Occhipinti doesn't like to categorize his music. The longtime musician who plays blues, jazz, funk, rock and more says the decision to use John Lennon's music as a base for Shine On not only honours one of the most famous songwriters of our time, but gives audience members a common point of reference.

"I play so many different kinds of music and I write so many different kinds of music that I just kind of stopped worrying about what to call it and what it is and what it isn't. Because it seems like as soon as you do that you run up against the fact that it's an inadequate description," Occhipinti said.

To mark 30 years since the passing of Lennon, in 2010, Occhipinti, the artistic director of the Markham Jazz Festival brought together some of the more versatile musicians he knew to do a one-time concert.

"We did it at this church and the church was sold out ... at the end of the concert everybody was like, 'where's the CD? Where can we get this?'" he says.

The group decided it was worth continuing together, putting out an album.

Elizabeth Shepherd, Yvette Tollar, Dominic Mancuso, Mark Kelso, Kevin Turcotte and Roberto Occhipinti along with Michael Occhipinti make up the Shine On group.

Other than Shepherd, who lives in Montreal, the rest of the performers live in Toronto and while each has his or her own musical career, they come together to put on a series of Lennon-inspired shows regularly.

Michael Occhipinti is a composer, guitar player and arranger, who has several projects on the go at any given time. Aside from Shine On, he recently put out a record of Sicilian music, was commissioned to write a piece of classical music and is also part of a funk band.

Occhipinti has been nominated for several Juno awards, as have members of the Shine On collective with more than 20 nominations between them.

The interesting thing about picking someone iconic ... for the most part most people know the vast majority of the tunes and they have an emotional resonance.

— Michael Occhipinti

"The main thing that I want people to know is most of the projects I do are creative in the sense that I try to make them sound like me," he says.

This is not a Beatles tribute band; the songs, while familiar, are taken in new directions that the audience might not expect.

"I like that idea – that people should be surprised in a good way."

Bringing a "genre-crossing" sound to the Forest Festival is made easier by basing it in the familiarity of Lennon's music.

"The interesting thing about picking someone iconic ... for the most part most people know the vast majority of the tunes and they have an emotional resonance," Occhipinti says.

Being creative with the piece doesn't always mean changing it very much. Simply having a woman sing a song like "I am the Walrus" is enough to give a classic song a new feel.

"It kind of makes it fresh for people, too ... the reaction is usually really positive," he says.

Occhipinti has been to Haliburton visiting friends on Minnick Lake, but has never played the Forest Festival before.

Shine On plays the Haliburton Forest Festival on Aug. 13 at the Historic Logging Museum. The seven-piece band, with more than 20 Juno nominations between them, brings a fresh and surprising genre-crossing take on the work of John Lennon. Photo by Frank Nagy, courtesy of Shine On Shine On: The Universe Of John Lennon is on Thursday, Aug. 13 at 8 p.m. at the Historic Logging Museum at Haliburton Forest and Wild Life Reserve. Admission is $36 plus HST. You can buy tickets online at theforestfestival.com.

Big sounds and big ideas Under the Big Tent

DARREN LUM

Staff Reporter

Abbey Gardens is hosting a diverse five days with opportunities to help your community, be part of an important conversation, be entertained and be immersed in culture with Under the Big Tent from Thursday, Aug. 6 until Monday, Aug. 10.

Heather Reid, Abbey Gardens operations director, is excited about this week and invites the entire community to come, as Abbey Gardens will have something for everyone.

She said this event will be used as a barometer for the Abbey Gardens as a venue location and if they will run the Big Tent annually. With Big Tent affordable and casual nights, they hope it draws new people to Abbey Gardens who wouldn't otherwise come.

On Saturday, Aug. 8, Kurt Browning MCs Highlands Opera Studio's fundraiser, the Gala in the Gardens, which features Canadian superstar tenor, Richard Margison, jazz piano legend and founder of The Beaches Jazz Festival, Bill King, accordion player Joseph Macerollo, members of the COC orchestra brass section, the 2015 Highlands Opera Studio participants and jazz/rhythm and blues vocalist Selena Evangeline.

The reception is at 6 p.m. (which includes wine, beer and hors d'oeuvres) and the opera performance starts at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $50 and include reception and food. Get tickets at Abbey Gardens, at Highway 118 just outside West Guilford on 1012 Garden Gate Dr., or call 705-457-9933 or go to highlandsoperastudio.com.

Reid said the high calibre of talent scheduled is owed to the efforts of Valerie Kuinka and Richard Margison of the Highlands Opera Studio.

The day after, the tent will showcase the musical talent by Ray Montford, who is accompanied by Ben Riley on drums and Russ Boswell on bass.

Reid describes Montford as "eclectic" with sound she characterizes as jazz and light rock genre.

There will be something for everyone. Opening for Montford is the Last of the Bandits, who are a young and upcoming band.

This concert is from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and is a Haliburton County Folk Society initiative.

Tickets are $25 ($20 for society members and students) and are available at Abbey Gardens, Halco Electronics in Haliburton, Organic Times in Minden and at www.haliburtonfolk.com.

For the first time Abbey Gardens will be hosting Carbon Conversations Conference – Different Voices, Common Future: Working Together for a Sustainable Planet on Friday, Aug. 7.

It features an impressive list of guest speakers including former president of the World Conservation Union and former Commonwealth secretary-general Sir Shridath "Sonny" Ramphal of Guyana, award-winning journalist and author of Sea Sick: The Global Ocean Crisis Alanna Mitchell and director of the Haliburton Forest Peter Schleifenbaum.

This promises to initiate conversations about sustainability on an international and local level.

The Carbon Conversations event is in partnership with Trent University. Lunch and refreshments are included. It starts 10 a.m. and ends 5:30 p.m. Tickets are $35 or pay what you can and available at Abbey Gardens or at abbeygardens.ca.

The Big Tent includes two movie nights that will allow families to experience a drive-in like experience (without cars). The first is the popular animated family movie, Frozen on Thursday, Aug. 6.

On Monday, Aug. 10, the second night features the Walt Disney produced live-action Tomorrow Land, starring George Clooney. Tickets are available at the door and cost $10 for adults, $5 for children and $30 for a family. Snacks and drinks will be available, including beer, pizza, coffee, popcorn and treats. Both shows start at 7 p.m.

The movie nights are being shown in partnership with Sticks and Stones, who are providing a screen and technical support.

Money for arenas, Rotary Beach Park coming from federal infrastructure fund

Three Haliburton County projects received $138,200 collectively for repairs and new projects from the Canada 150 Community Infrastructure Program.

Last week, MP Barry Devolin announced the funding, which will go to renovations at the S.G. Nesbitt Memorial Arena in Minden, repairs to the arena flooring at the Keith Tallman Memorial Arena in Wilberforce and improvements to Haliburton's Rotary Beach Park.

Dysart et al CAO Tamara Wilbee said the $50,000 awarded for Rotary beach represents 50 per cent of what is needed for the proposed project.

While the plans haven't yet been finalized, Wilbee said the "key items were solar bollard lighting for the pathway in Rotary Park, install a sprinkler in the lake at Rotary Beach (aerates water, deters geese and provides a simple water play feature), improvements to the tennis practice wall, basketball court, beach volleyball and some money toward the skate park improvements," she said.

"We aren't sure yet exactly how much work we'll be able to accomplish within each identified project area, but we hope to make a significant impact."

The municipality intends on having the project complete during 2016 so it can be ready for the township's 150th celebrations in 2017.

Details about the other two projects were not available at press time.

Kennisis plunges into summer

The competition may be friendly, but there was some serious hardware up for grabs at the Kennis Lake Cottagers Owners' Association's annual regatta on Aug. 1.

Swimmers dash for the finish during races. The day included kids' activities, boating events and a barbecue.

LGBTQ allies holding dragon boat events

A group of county residents, in association with the local community social service providers, are hosting an event to support lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgendered and queer youth and allies in the community.

Paddling with Pride is the next event following in the spirit of the February event at Baked and Battered also for LGBTQ supporters.

On Wednesdays starting Aug. 5 and running until Sept. 9 from 6:45 to 8:30 p.m., the group is meeting to go dragon boating as a way to bring together friends, allies and champions of LGBTQ people.

With this event, they hope to raise awareness and support inclusion.

If you are interested in more information or would like to participate in this event, please RSVP Amanda Tripp at Point in Time (amandat@pointintime.ca or 705-457-5345 EXT 318).

Once you RSVP you will have location details.

They would like people to RSVP so they are able to know numbers as the dragon boat only holds 24 people.

If you are not into dragon boating but would still like to participate, RSVP and you join the group cheering on the boat.

Twenty-four hours after separation

BARBARA ROSEN

Special to the Echo

The first 24 hours after a serious operation are critical. And after my hot tub has lost power, Norm, the hot tub guy says, "Give it 24 hours."

So when my partner called and said, "I've met someone and have feelings for her and she for me and we need to separate," I decided to give it 24 hours.

I had a lot of things on my plate that would leave little room to think about the pain of separation.

My friend was coming to visit Tuesday until Wednesday, I had to prepare my cottage for renters coming next Sunday, find a safe place to stay in Toronto, and hitch a ride back to Toronto.

I practised yoga and meditation and decided over the next 24 hours to honour the practices that included breathing, watching, relaxing, feeling and allowing the universe to offer up.

And here's what played out.

"Can I reserve a room in the Guest House Friday until Tuesday?" I emailed the Guest House Convent.

"Can I get a ride with you back to Toronto on Friday?" I emailed a couple of friends in cottage country.

"We just have one room left and we'll hold it for you. Just confirm ASAP," emailed back Sr. Susanne.

"Sorry, we're not going back to Toronto," emailed back one friend.

"I want to come and visit you, not Tuesday to Wednesday, but Thursday to Friday," emailed my good friend changing her cottage visit plans.

"Thank you so much, Sister. I'm coming on Friday just before dinner and I can offer yoga if anyone's interested and sit at Front Desk Reception."

"That's great my good friend and just one request. I need to drive back with you to Toronto."

I still had to consider a place to stay from Tuesday to Sunday.

I called my daughter with the news of the separation and asked if I could stay with her.

"Mom, I'm here for you," were the words she spoke that touched my heart.

And as it turned out a Meditation Centre was offering a three-day non-residential retreat during that week.

I registered for the retreat.

It seems I received a lot of blessings during this challenging time.

So I'm a firm believer in the 24 hour principle. And just when I was overcome with so many blessings, there was one more.

"I hope you're enjoying the cottage and as I have a lake association meeting on Sunday morning I wanted to let you know I'll be staying in the small cabin overnight," I emailed the renters.

"The cottage is great, so private with the best view of the lake. And you lucked out because we've decided to pack up and leave Saturday afternoon," one of the renters emailed me back.

Join Barbara for free yoga, meditation and writing Saturday, Aug. 9, 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. in Haliburton at Blue Sky Yoga.

A family tradition in Guilford

A tradition from years ago – 50 or 60 – was begun by the Andy Sisson family at the head of Pine Lake at the beach by Iris Gibbon's cottage. As many as could come of the nine in the family with spouses and families returned year by year on the civic holiday weekend. It also included the Ellis Smyths, the Don Smyths and Claude and Wynn Woodcock and family. Well, over the years many of that generation have gone. Now the family of younger generation gather at Shane and Lynda Sisson's to celebrate the reunion. Some of those present this year included Joyce Sisson, her son Craig and his wife Carleigh. Andy Sisson of Elliot Falls, son of Byron and Sylvia was present. Brenda, daughter of Iris (Sisson) Gibbon, was present with her husband Steve Cowie and daughter Samantha from Burlington. Valerie (Sisson) Chumbley was there with daughter Laura Jane Halfyard with family Wilhelm and Miranda from Mississauga.

Leslie (Sisson) Chumbley was also present with husband David and their daughter Jillian of Orillia. Many other Sisson connections were present but too many to mention.

A new venture is occurring at the West Guilford Baptist Church with Kids in the Kitchen under responsible leadership where the children enrolled learn waiter/waitressing habits, some simple meal preparation and customary habits and skills. It happens on Wednesdays in the afternoons. Call 705-754-1537 for details.

The community bids farewell to a valued and respected member in the person of Leon Jones who died on Wednesday morning last week. Heartfelt sympathy goes to Alice and to the family for this sad loss. Information as to burial will be available at a later date.

Geraldine Sawyer is now a resident of Extencicare in Haliburton.

I was absent at the time of her passing, but wish to pass my condolences along with those of the community, to Ed Muenzel and his family. In her younger and more able years, Ginny wrote the Northern Reflections column. She was a weaver who learned the craft well and helped me at the loom when I was learning.

Euchre last Tuesday
Most lone hands: Ray Campbell and Barbara Brownsberger

High score: Emile Duchene and Sandy Poulton

Low: Bert Craig and Pearl Kernohan
Specials: Perry Morrison and Pearl Kernohan

Aug. 2 was Decoration Day service led by Rev. Max Ward at Maple Lake United Church. Attendance was small, but well worth attending and appreciated by all present.

Exhibition illuminates lighting through the ages

What an exciting summer it has been at our National Historic Site, our Outpost Museum. And hopefully it will continue with an exhibit of early lighting, which opens this Thursday evening at 7 p.m. When the first Red Cross nurse Miss Josephine Jackson arrived in Wilberforce in February 1922 there were still some candles in use but most people in this area would have been using coal oil lamps and lanterns. Gertrude LeRoy Miller writes of still using the kerosene lamps in 1930 but they also had a Coleman lamp, which burned naphtha gasoline. When power lines finally reached Wilberforce in the mid 1940s the Outpost nursing station was one of the first to be wired for lights.

Some of each of these types of lighting can be visited at the Outpost Museum. It's open daily 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. until Labour Day. Closed Tuesdays. Vanessa, summer student guide, would love to give you a tour. This Lighting Through The Ages show and the popular Aprons Exhibit will continue during Doors Open and Hike Haliburton weekends in September.

Enjoy experiencing some cool jazz? Then plan to attend the Esson Lake Jazz Night on Saturday, Aug. 8. It starts at 7:30 p.m. at Watsons' Place. Just follow Sunset Cottage Road, look for the campfire and listen for the music. A flashlight is good if you have to park up the grade and around the bend! Or maybe park your canoe or boat off shore and let the music cross the water to you. Thanks Ann and Dave and your musical guests.

But first of all this is Ag. Fair weekend. Making connections at the Agricultural Fair with farming then and now is easy. Farm dogs are a big help with herding cattle and sheep. Think of that as you watch the Children's Dog Show at 6:30 p.m. this Friday evening Aug. 7 when the fair kicks off.

Farms have tractors, right? Think of how they have eased farm work as you watch the kids under 75 pounds warm up for Saturday's pedal tractor pull at Friday night's pedal tractor obstacle course on the tennis court.

How strong are ponies and horses? They show that at pulls both Friday at 7p.m. and Saturday beginning at 2 p.m.

Eat corn grown on a farm. Make a scarecrow and imagine it frightening crows away from a cornfield. As you visit the antique farm equipment display remember that these old machines sure improved farming in their heyday when most digging, cultivating, reaping, milking, etc. had been all done by hand.

So much to do, to see, to eat, to enjoy at the fair. There is even a geocaching booth in case you feel lost or just want to find hidden treasures at the fair. And everyone tours the curling rink to see who entered what and who won ribbons. See you there.

— By Hilda Clark

NOTICE OF COMPLETE APPLICATION AND NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING PROPOSED ZONING BY-LAW AMENDMENT

- DATE: Tuesday September 8th, 2015
- TIME: 5:00 pm
- LOCATION: Council Chambers in the Municipal Office
135 Maple Ave., Haliburton, Ontario

APPLICATIONS:

1. Lands of Griffin:
  - Purpose and Effect: The proposed by law will zone the lands for the intended rural residential use.
  - Zone change from "CH-16" to "RR".
  - Location: Part Lot 22, Concession 3, Geographic Township of Guilford (2359 Eagle lake Road).

IF A PERSON OR PUBLIC BODY does not make oral submissions at a public meeting or make written submissions to the Municipality of Dysart et al before the proposed zoning by-law is passed, the person or public body is not entitled to appeal the decision of the Municipality of Dysart et al to the Ontario Municipal Board.

IF A PERSON OR PUBLIC BODY does not make oral submissions at a public meeting or make written submissions to the Municipality of Dysart et al before the proposed zoning by-law is passed, the person or public body may not be added as a party to the hearing of an appeal before the Ontario Municipal Board unless, in the opinion of the Board, there are reasonable grounds to do so.

FURTHER INFORMATION: including the draft by-law is available from the Planning Department at the Municipality Office during regular office hours (8:30 am to 4:30 pm, Monday to Friday) or by phoning 705-457-1740.

Dated at the Township of Dysart, this 4th day of August, 2015.

Director of Planning and Development

Kawagama Lake Dam Notice of Intention to Proceed Category B - Class EA for MNR Resource Stewardship and Facility Development Projects

The Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry (MNRF) is seeking comments on its intention to proceed to modify the Kawagama Lake Dam to meet the requirements of the Operating Plan for Kawagama Lake under the Muskoka Water Management Plan.

A Category B project evaluation and consultation process was completed in March 2007 in accordance with the Class Environmental Assessment for MNR Resource Stewardship and Facility Development Projects, and it identified no significant adverse environmental effects. Following the submission of the final Project Evaluation Report by Jacques Whitford, funding was not available to complete the project. Funding is now available to complete this project and the purpose of this notice is to complete the Environmental Assessment requirements, to allow MNRF to proceed with project implementation.

The project site is located at the outlet of Kawagama Lake, in the County of Haliburton within the Township of Algonquin Highlands east of the Town of Dorset (refer to map). The project will address needed repairs to stoplogs, stoplog gains and the overhead gantry on the dam as well as provide concrete and masonry repair and the installation of a new safety railing. The project includes the lowering of a section of the southern wingwall to provide high water level overflow relief. In addition, the project will undertake to upgrade the condition the dam access road.

The implementation of the project was previously deferred due to funding constraints, and now MNRF wishes to proceed. The project and its potential environmental effects remain unchanged. For further information on the project, to inspect the project file or to submit comments please contact:

Dave Macpherson, C.E.T.
Engineering Technologist
Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry
1350 High Falls Road, Bracebridge, Ontario, P1L 1W9
705-646-5549

If at the end of this notice period MNRF considers that there are no significant outstanding concerns the MNRF may proceed with implementation of the undertaking without further public notice.

Where there are outstanding concerns about this project that cannot be resolved in discussion with the MNRF, concerned parties have an opportunity to formally request the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change issue a Part II Order requiring the project to be subject to an individual assessment under the Environmental Assessment Act. As this decision rests with the Minister of the Environment and Climate Change, please direct your inquiries in this regard to the Minister, Ministry of the Environment and Climate Change, 135 St. Clair Ave. W., 12th Flr, Toronto, Ontario, M4V 1P5. Requests must be received by the Minister within the 30 day comment period, which expires September 10, 2015, and copied at the same time to the MNRF at the address below.

Comments and personal information regarding this project are collected under authority of the Environmental Assessment Act to assist MNR in making decisions. Comments not constituting personal information as defined by the Freedom of Information and Protection of Privacy Act, will be shared among MNR and others as appropriate, and may be included in documentation available for public review. Personal information will remain confidential unless prior consent to disclose is obtained. This information may be used by MNR to seek public input on other projects. Please contact Dave Macpherson, Engineering Technologist, Southern Region Engineering Unit, 705-646-5549 for further information.

640 OBITUARIES

It is with great sadness that the family of Robert Timothy 'Tim' Woods announce that on Tuesday, July 28th, 2015 Dad lost his battle with cancer. Known for his bad jokes, opinions, work ethic and eye for detail, Dad taught us what it meant to live with integrity.

He is survived by his beloved wife of 42 'stinking' years, Rickie, and his four children Amanda (Cliff), Dennis, Katie (Mike), and Trevor (Michelle). His memory will forever live on in his grandchildren, Mason and Jack, and those that are yet to be.

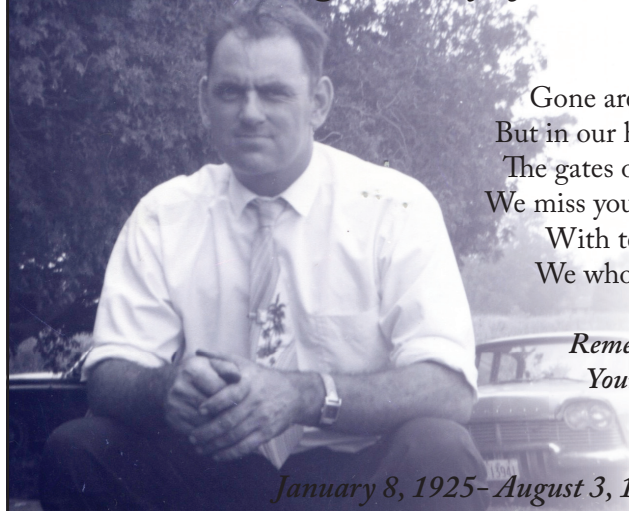

The family held a celebration of Tim's Life on Friday, July 31st, 2015 at their home in Minden. Hawaiian apparel was appropriate, as requested by Tim. Cremation has taken place.

In lieu of flowers the family would appreciate donations to the Palliative Care Unit at the Haliburton Hospital.
